

Public Produce Garden Newsletter June 29, 2015

Hope you didn't wilt in the heat this weekend. It was a hot one for sure. Don't let the heat stop you from visiting the garden this week especially now that we have shade under the pergola! So come on by, turn on a sprinkler, relax in the shade and harvest some greens. Why not have a big salad for dinner and avoid turning on the stove.

Thanks to everyone who participated in the "Bee Happy Garden Workshop" and the "We Love Rhubarb Kitchen Workshop". Both were very successful with participants taking home a bee house and lots of tasty rhubarb creations. If you have more rhubarb than you don't know what to do with, let us know and we will come take it off your hands! We have one more workshop in our spring series: "Soil Mates Companion Planting Garden Workshop". It's taking place July 7th in Kimberley and July 8th in Cranbrook, 6:30-8:30pm. To register visit <https://secure.wildsight.ca/civcrm/event/info?id=89&reset=1>.

Mark your calendars for Sunday the 5th from 4-6pm for a little garden social. Come meet other garden users, have a snack, pull a weed, learn some tips, play a game or pick a strawberry. It's sure to be a good time!

Ready to Harvest:

-The lettuce isn't the biggest fan of the heat so come harvest it for dinner

-We are getting close to the end of Rhubarb so get your fill

-We still have a few radishes

-Jostaberries, Strawberries!!!

Events

- Garden Social
July 5th, 4-6pm

- Soil Mates Companion Planting - Garden Workshop
July 7th Kimberley and 8th Cranbrook 6:30-8:30pm

Projects

-Water and then tarp the yard waste pile behind the compost (this will help those sod clumps break down)

-call out for artists. We want to bring art to the garden!

-Area under the fruit trees is getting very grassy, let's add .more mulch.

See you Sunday
